myIEEE is no longer accessible: Here's why and what's next myIEEE was launched back in 2006 as a way for IEEE members to easily access all that IEEE membership has to offer. At the time it was an innovative platform, but over the years technology has evolved, new online platforms have emerged, and the way members interact, share, and receive information has dramatically changed.

To better meet these changes and focus efforts towards the future, myIEEE has been shut down and replaced with two new valuable tools: IEEE Collabratec® and the newly launched volunteer portals.
